Harbour Island is the Billionaire's Backyard

Harbour Island, North Eleuthera, Bahamas, May 1, 2015—Harbour Island and North Eleuthera are filled with a history of travelers wanting to make it home—from ancient Arawak sites to the European Pilgrims known as “Eleutherian Adventurers”. More recent times are no different. From the 1950’s on prominent American and European celebrities and entrepreneurs have made it their secret backyard. The list includes Arthur Vining Davis, Juan Trippe, Princess Diana, Elle Macpherson, Ron Perelman, Mickey Drexler, and Bill Gates. Not bad for an island that’s 3.5 miles long by 1 mile wide.

Palm Beach Daily News also knows a thing or two about Harbour Island’s charm. English is the common language throughout the Bahamas, the weather is perfect year-round, the food is as fresh as it gets (seeing fishermen bring their catch from the boat to the restaurant is commonplace), amazing music is played in the islands’ churches to visitors like Mick Jagger and Lenny Kravitz, and then, as stated in the Palm Beach Daily News, “there’s the 3-mile long, glorious sand beach as pink as the inside of a conch shell. It makes every magazine’s “best beach” list every year.”

And then, to truly make it the playground of the rich and famous, there’s the yachting and sport-fishing. Valentine’s Residences Resort & Marina is the launching pad for some of the best fishing in the Bahamas. Their 51 yacht marina is full service with everything to from fuel to dockside dining. Their location is central to the island and is on the protected west side, opposite the Atlantic ocean. It’s proximity makes it perfect for fishing the deep of the ocean, the waters between North Eleuthera to Abaco and Nassau, and the shallower waters of the Exuma Sound. Valentine’s also features a full-service spa, waterfront dining and cocktails, coffeehouse serving Starbuck’s, and 41 hotel-condo units you can book for a weekend or own and keep in the rental program.
